HW #11

6. Some modern "Goliaths" are peer pressure, drugs, sometimes school bullies, and rules. A sense of duty might influence me if I saw drug addicts, I'd try to stop them from doing drugs.

How countlessly they congregate
O'er our tumultuous snow
Which flows in shapes as tall as trees
When wintery winds shall blow.

As if with keenness for our fate
Our pattering feet steps
To write rest a place of rest.
Invisible at dawn
And yet with neither ~~passion~~ love or hate
Those stars like some snow white.
Minerva's snow-white marble eyes,
without the gift of sight.

I am 9 years old, a boy at home
staring at stars.
